

DANIELA MELCHIOR

Daniela Melchior is a Portuguese actress with a diverse career in television and cinema, both in Portugal and internationally.

On television, she began her career in 2014 with the series 'Mulheres', followed by 'Massa Fresca', 'Ouro Verde', 'A Herdeira', 'Valor da Vida' and 'Pecado'.

In film, she made her feature debut in 2018 in Valeria Sarmiento's 'The Black Book' and starred in António Pedro Vasconcelos' 'Parque Mayer', the latter earning her a nomination for the Sophia Award for Best Actress.

She also provided the Portuguese voice for Gwen Stacy in 'Spider-Man: Into the Spider-Verse'.

International recognition came with James Gunn's 'The Suicide Squad' (2021), in which she played Cleo Cazo/Ratcatcher 2, a role that earned her a nomination at the Portuguese Golden Globes. This was followed by the feature films 'Marlowe', 'Assassin Club', 'Fast X', 'Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 3' and 'Road House'.

Languages

Portuguese, English